

UBuild Logs

UBuild stores all application messaging in a logging file within the Logs folder. This file will be prefixed with "UBuildLog_" with the applications session launch time following.

This will display all information found in the console displayed within the main window of the user interface. To avoid unnecessary logging within the UI some errors are reported to this log file instead of the UI console, in the event something is going wrong you should check this file and it will display more information.
